MARC LINSELL ARCHITECTURE RECEIVES SPECIAL RECOGNITION AT 2007 HOUSE TOUR SPONSORED BY MILLS COLLEGE

Two of the five homes chosen to be showcased at the 2007 House Tours, Charming Cottages of Palo Alto, were designed by Marc Lindsell Architecture. The annual tour is sponsored by the Palo Alto Mills College Club, with proceeds going for the benefit of the scholarship program for students at Mills College. The event was attended by more than one thousand admiring visitors.

One home is a Colonial Revival. An ambitious remodel of the first story bumped the kitchen out six feet, raised the living room ceiling, replaced the hardwood floor, and converted a porch into an inviting family room. The second story now has three spacious bedrooms, two baths, and a laundry room. The contractor was Farrell Company.

The other home is a Craftsman-style. The second-story addition—carefully planned to echo the original lines of the home—expanded the home by two bedrooms, a laundry room, and a landing that doubles as office space and a music area for the homeowners' needs and talents. The contractor was S.E.A. Construction.
